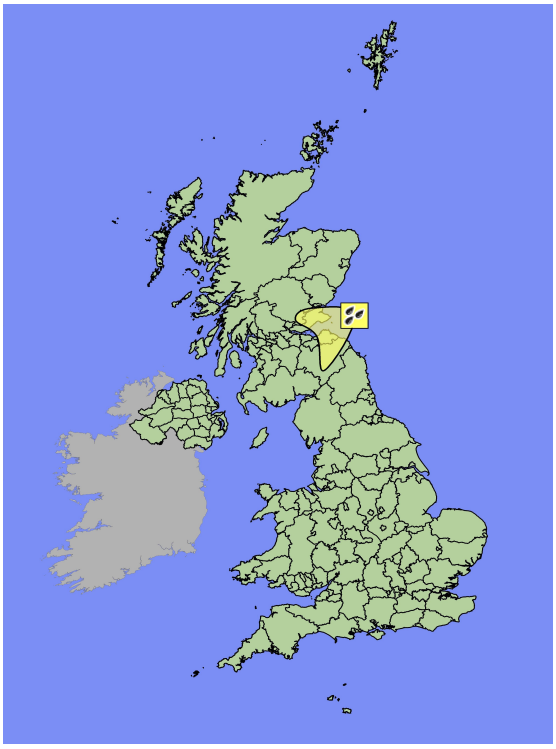
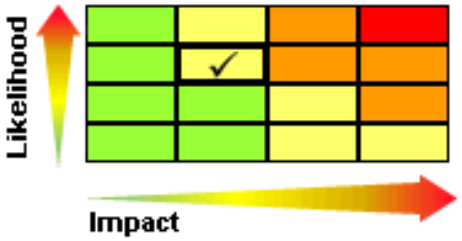
National Severe Weather Warning Service





CANCELLED

Chief Forecasters Assessment
A depression moving in from the Atlantic and into central parts of the UK will strengthen the easterly winds, which will enhance the rainfall associated with a band of rain moving up from the south on Thursday. By early Friday, totals will build up, giving more than 20 mm in places on already saturated ground.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 12:00 on Thu, 21st Jun 2012 until 12:00 on Fri, 22nd Jun 2012

A period of heavy and persistent rain is expected to affect southeast Scotland through the early hours of Friday morning. The rain is then expected to clear away northwards during the morning. With ground already wet, the public should be aware of the risk of localised flooding.
